

BROADS BOAT SAFETY SCHEME

The national Boat Safety Scheme applies in the Broads to all boats with engines and/or cooking, heating, lighting, refrigeration and other domestic appliances, including open boats propelled by outboard motors with fixed electrical systems such as electric starts. It does not apply to open boats propelled solely by outboard motors and not fitted with any of the above appliances or systems.

A boat owner needs to arrange for independent examination of the boat in order to get a BSS certificate; evidence of a valid certificate must be produced to the Broads Authority when applying to pay a toll. Visiting boats without certificates may be subject to hazardous-boat checks.

BSS examinations include other safety checks, such as fire escape provision, gas lockers, flues for toxic fume spillage and power connections (inc. AC electrical shore-supply leads for potential for electrocution and fire). If a boat fails any of these checks, the owner will be formally notified and advice offered.

At least one certified carbon monoxide alarm is now required on nearly all boats requiring a BSS certificate. See Carbon Monoxide on page 24.

INSURANCE – REQUIREMENT AND ADVICE

INSURANCE REQUIREMENT

There is only one compulsory requirement. The Broads Authority Act 2009 requires owners to hold insurance against third party liability; the minimum cover is £2,000,000. This applies to all boats including visiting craft. The only exception is for unpowered craft with a block area of less than 6m².

Broads boat owner and Managing Director at Alan Boswell Insurance Brokers, Chris Gibbs, offers some expert advice:

INSURANCE ADVICE

In practice the single compulsory requirement is the absolute minimum you should adhere to. However we recommend you also consider the following when arranging your insurance:

- Comprehensive cover Third party cover only protects you for damage you cause to other boats, property or injuries to other people but the difference in cost between third party and fully comprehensive insurance is usually minimal. It really does pay to be covered for the costs of repairing your own boat should the worst happen.
- Insure at the correct value It is often difficult to know where to set the insured value of your boat. The market value provides a guide but the nature of the history and craftsmanship involved in classic Broads boats means the sum insured often needs to be higher than the market value. Seeking the advice of a specialist broker or insurer when setting the sum is strongly recommended.
- Surveys and condition reports Traditionally most insurers insist on surveys when a boat reaches a certain age. This requirement can be relaxed and replaced by a condition report for classic boats. Again, consult your insurer or broker about the alternatives open to you.
- Agree your cruising range Your insurance premium will be affected by where you intend to use your boat. This can vary from Broads and inland waters for coastal trips up to offshore cover for European trips. Ensure your insurance reflects your plans and define where you plan to boat.
- Making a claim If you are involved in an incident or your boat suffers any damage make contact with your insurer or broker as quickly as possible. Keep notes, including the contact details of any witnesses, and take photographs of any damage. This will help you provide as much supporting detail and evidence as possible.

Look after your boat – learn about Broads Beat and Boat Shield

Both Norfolk and Suffolk police believe strongly that prevention is better than cure and provide advice to boat owners, property owners and businesses about the best ways to keep their boats and waterside property secure.

Norfolk Constabulary have a designated Broads Beat team with two boats, an off-road vehicle and a range of technology available to aid them in the role of reducing the risks to boat owners of becoming victims of crime on the water. They can be on the look-out for and react to unexpected incidents.

In addition they now run a Fast SMS Text alert service to Private Boat owners / Marinas / Landlords / Boatyards and Marine Businesses – if people wish to send their mobile contact number and agree to the current GDPR regulations.

Visit www.norfolk.police.uk/broadsbeat for information and advice.

Join the scheme – take appropriate steps to secure your boat and display the Boat Shield symbol.
